PANDEMIC INFLUENZA PLANNING

Pandemics have been around for at least the past four hundred years. In the past century alone, there have been three pandemics and several pandemic threats. These worldwide epidemics create high rates of serious illness and death, along with global social and economical disruption. Because pandemics are unpredictable and occur with little warning, contingency planning must be in place to reduce the potentially damaging effects of an influenza pandemic.

Who should take Pandemic Influenza Planning?

This course program is designed for:
